Block ransomware and targeted attacks with hosted endpoint security for all your devices

Trend Micro Worry-Free Services provides cloud-based endpoint security for Windows, Mac, and mobile devices from a secure, centralised, web-based management console. It protects against viruses, dangerous websites, and other threats. No server or maintenance is required, and it's easy to install and manage.

KEY FEATURES --

Comprehensive endpoint protection

Your computers, and mobile devices stay protected against malware, ransomware, dangerous websites, data theft, viruses, spyware, and targeted attacks—whether the devices are on or off the network.

Device and data protection

Devices and data are kept safe with centralised device control, threat protection, web security, mobile device security and management, data loss prevention, ransomware protection, QuickBooks protection, and full-disk encryption management.

Centralised management

Manage all your devices—Windows, Mac, and mobile devices—via one easy-to-use web console. And enforce security policies to employees anywhere, at branch offices and remotely.

Advanced threat protection

Powered by XGen security, Worry-Free Services infuses high-fidelity machine learning, behaviour analysis, file reputation, web reputation, web filtering, device control, firewall, and application control for the broadest protection against ransomware, malware, viruses, and advanced attacks.

KEY BENEFITS ---

No maintenance

The management console is hosted in the cloud and maintained by Trend Micro. You'll never have to apply a hotfix, patch, or upgrade again. Plus, you'll always have the most up-to-date protection.
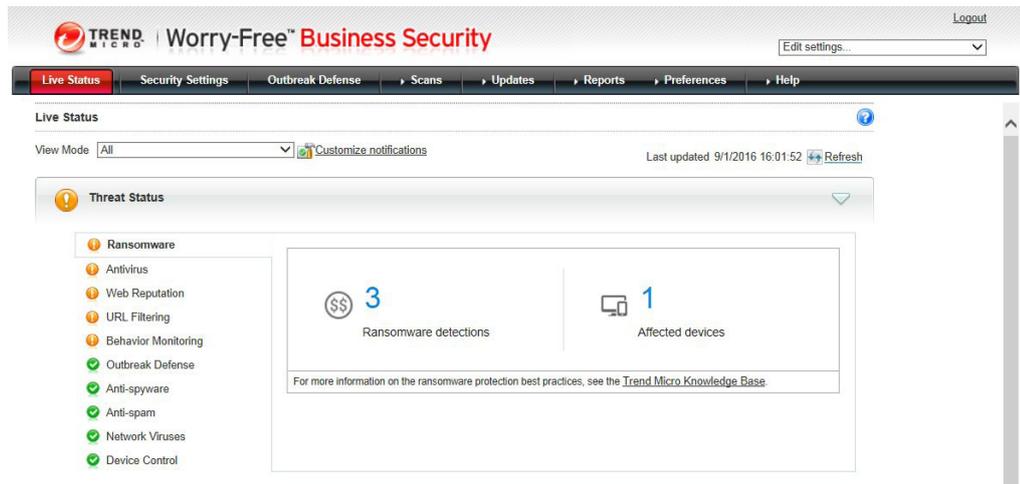

Save time and reduce efforts

Worry-Free Services is maintained by Trend Micro, and updates are made automatically so you can focus on your business instead of your security. You'll have complete protection with a limited impact on performance.

Accurate protection

High-fidelity machine learning reduces false positives, ensuring you get the information you need.

Affordable

Make your security truly worry-free with affordable pricing.
